Tennessee Wig Walk
Contributed by Calvin Campbell from D4BP Blog.

This song was written in the early 1950's. Several dances soon appeared. One of the most popular dances was a mixer usually done in a square of four couples or a big circle of couples. I found a good YouTube Version that shows the dance routine. Click on red words.

There is also a second version of this dance on YouTube. It is harder to teach to beginners, but it has a good hand clap sequence.

The directions for this mixer are also available on another website.
The song was recorded by Bonnie Lou in 1953. I danced the dance in high school and collage many times. Music is available on You Tube. Artist is BONNIE LOU - Tennessee Wig Walk (1953) with lyrics

The version that is used for most dancing was done by Russ Morgan and His Orchestra. The MP3 may be purchased at Amazon.

There is at least one line dance on YouTube
